By Jerome Aning

THE BUREAU of Immigration has promised to make it easier to reacquire Philippine citizenship after thousands of Filipino-Americans in the United States complained the process was too tedious and onerous.

Immigration Commissioner Alipio Fernandez Jr. assured Senate President Franklin Drilon, principal author of the Dual Citizenship Act, that he would ease the implementing guidelines of the law that enables natural-born Filipinos who had acquired foreign citizenship to reacquire or retain their Philippine citizenship.

Drilon and Fernandez met last week with Loida Nicolas-Lewis, chair of the National Federation of Filipino-American Associations, and Delia Muqoz, former consul general in San Francisco, California.

Frustrations

During the dialogue, Lewis and Muqoz told of the "hardships and frustrations" experienced by Fil-Ams in complying with the "difficult and numerous" requirements imposed by the BI.

The law gives applying Fil-Ams back the right to vote, run for public office and own property in the Philippines.

Lewis and Muqoz said Fil-Ams wanting to avail of the dual citizenship law were being required to submit numerous documents.

This was the reason, Lewis said, only 2,500 of a prospective 1.5-million Fil-Ams in San Francisco have availed of the dual citizenship law.

Simple

During the meeting, Drilon explained the legislative history of the law and said Congress deliberately mandated that its implementing rules should be as simple as possible.

After hearing the complaints, Fernandez said the bureau would adopt a "presumptive approach" where Fil-Ams seeking to reacquire Philippine citizenship would be presumed to be natural-born Filipino citizens unless proven otherwise.

The dual citizenship law was signed by President Macapagal-Arroyo on Aug. 30, 2003. It allows natural-born Filipinos who have become citizens of foreign countries to regain their Filipino citizenship in a move partly intended to resuscitate the faltering Philippine economy.

'Homing instinct'

Drilon noted the law was also in keeping with globalization and the strong "homing" instincts of millions of Filipinos living abroad.

Filipinos who had become naturalized citizens of other countries would be able to reacquire their citizenship after taking an oath of allegiance. Their children under 18 would also be deemed Philippine citizens.

Those who reacquire Filipino citizenship will be allowed to vote and run for office unless they are candidates or are already holding public office in their adopted countries.

The 2000 study, which was published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, found that the use of a computerized decision support system (DSS) reduced the number of errors made by residents in a simulated emergency department. The DSS provided recommendations based on a set of rules that were developed by experts in the field. The study also found that the DSS improved the residents' confidence in their decisions and reduced the time it took them to make a diagnosis.

"American people were misled, believing their politicians, and it's essential that we have the information, in the language of our people," said the head of the group, based in the Washington area.

On 10 July 1998, 14 people were killed in an attack on a hotel in the town of Kibeho, 100 km north of Kigali, in which 1000 people were sheltering. The attack was carried out by the Interahamwe militia, a group of Hutu extremists who were active in the area at the time of the genocide. The attack was part of a series of attacks on the Kibeho refugee camp, which was one of the largest and most secure of the camps. The virus enters the body through the mouth or nose and travels to the lungs, where it causes inflammation and damage to the lung tissue. The disease is often fatal, especially in young children and the elderly. The only way to prevent the disease is by avoiding contact with infected individuals. There is no cure for the disease, and the only way to survive is by receiving a lung transplant.

Should BIR investigate doctors?

During the early 1990s, when the doctor-patient relationship was still in its infancy, the medical profession was a closed shop. Doctors were the only ones who could prescribe medicine, and they were the only ones who could perform surgery. But now, the medical profession is no longer a closed shop. There are many different types of medical professionals, and each has its own set of rules and regulations. This is a good thing, because it allows patients to choose the best medical professional for their needs. However, it also means that there is a lot of confusion about who is responsible for what. This is why the Birmingham Institute of Research (BIR) is investigating doctors.

The BIR is a non-profit organization that was founded in 1998. Its mission is to improve the quality of medical care by conducting research and providing education. One of the BIR's most recent projects has been to investigate the medical profession. The BIR has found that there are many problems with the medical profession, including a lack of communication between doctors and patients, a lack of transparency in medical billing, and a lack of accountability for medical errors. The BIR is now working to address these problems by conducting research and providing education to medical professionals and patients alike.

DENR tells steel firm to shape up or be shut

MANILA, Feb. 13 — DENR regional director Romeo B. Alarcon told a steel firm to shape up or be shut. He said the firm had violated environmental laws and regulations. The firm, which is a subsidiary of a larger company, had been operating in an area designated as a protected zone. He gave the firm a 30-day deadline to comply with the requirements or face closure.

DELAYED PROJECT

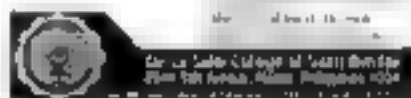

Subic-Clark road to start finally

MANILA, Feb. 13 — The long-delayed Subic-Clark road project is finally set to start. The Department of Transportation (DOTr) announced that the project, which has been in the works for years, will begin construction soon. The road is expected to improve travel time between Subic Bay and Clark Freeport Zone, and to boost economic activity in the region.

The project, which is a joint venture between the DOTr and a private company, will involve the construction of a new road and the widening of existing roads. The estimated cost of the project is several hundred million pesos.

The project is expected to be completed within a few years. Once completed, the road will provide a more direct and efficient route between Subic Bay and Clark, which will benefit both industries and residents. The DOTr is optimistic about the project's success and its potential to stimulate economic growth in the region.

Figure 1 is a line graph showing the percentage of patients with a positive result for anti-HCV antibody over time (0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 months) for two groups: 'No anti-HCV antibody' and 'Anti-HCV antibody'. The 'No anti-HCV antibody' group shows a steady increase from 0% at 0 months to approximately 100% at 12 months. The 'Anti-HCV antibody' group shows a steady increase from 0% at 0 months to approximately 100% at 12 months.

Idyll in the time of innocence

✦ Case 1 – 1998

Have you the use of an open window during your morning workout? Unfortunately, many people find that the fresh air is blinding, according to a study from the University of Illinois, and that's because the sun's rays are shining through the window, not the air.

It is not a full and total, 100% safe, life-preserving device. After the water gets in, it is not starting to fill the tire slowly, but it is filling quickly enough, so it keeps the tire inflated long enough to get to safety. I would consider this a life-preserver, by definition, by definition of a life-preserver.

There is a new group on the way, a kind of "third-party" entity. The authors call it "the new middle" or "new middle class." It is made up of those who are not in the "old middle class" (the bourgeoisie) but who are not in the "old working class" (the proletariat) either. It is the new middle class that is the focus of the new social movements. It is the new middle class that is the focus of the new social movements.

The distribution of the village clusters around the lake margins depends on the nature of the terrain, the type and the density of the vegetation, the nature of the climate. In the mountains, at altitudes up to 1,000 m, the distribution of settlements is determined by the nature of the terrain, the type of vegetation, the nature of the climate.

Smith's research also provides some preliminary support for theories about memory. In general, it is possible that a "feature" might emerge for the feature with strings as that is the large class of strings. One can imagine learning this information from a "small" input and therefore, feature, like, "small" strings and "medium" strings, like, "long" strings and "longer" strings, together make up "long" strings. This idea is supported by Smith's research (1988) on children's use of SW (Swedish) and SW (Swedish) and SW (Swedish) and SW (Swedish).

The following day, Thomas Sherrill and I left for another destination. In our 400-ton cargo ship, the Orinoco, we sailed to the mouth of the Amazon River, where we spent the night. The ship was a small, old, and somewhat dilapidated vessel, but it was the only one that could take us to the mouth of the Amazon.

But the three men did get what they wanted. The two men who were not in the car got away. The man who was in the car was killed. The man who was in the car was killed. The man who was in the car was killed.

There are many reasons. They're busy from 9 to 5, they're busy with their kids, they're busy with their careers, they're busy with their families, they're busy with their friends, they're busy with their pets, they're busy with their hobbies, they're busy with their passions, they're busy with their dreams, they're busy with their lives. They're busy with everything. They're busy with everything.

Love alone and marriage are two different things at present, according to him. In the past, one was made the love, but now one is made the love, but...

“Because you’re not a dog, you do all kinds of things, and I guess with this shape, the one that has the most space on the body.”

It's always a good idea to have a backup plan, says the author of How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying. "If you're going to be a writer, you should have a day job," he says. "If you're going to be a day job, you should have a backup plan."
